

FIEND ADMITS SLAYING GIRL; RECOVER BODY

Mystery of Disappearance of New York Girl, 10, Is Solved

PAINTER, 65 YEARS OLD, IS ARRESTED

Traced Through Letters He Wrote to Family Over Three Years

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The gave a Grace Budd disorged evidence a clinch solution today of the kidnapping and killing of the child and grandmother of Albert H. Fish.

Fish after mocking her family by mail since the crime was committed six years ago, was captured finally through the letters which he himself sent; confessed and led officers to the little girl's timberland tomb.

Butchered by a meat cleaver, the body was found in three parts, the skull buried in the woods near a ramshackle house in East Irvington, the other bones by a road.

"Glad It's Over"

"The blood lust seized me," the 65-year-old painter said. "But I'm glad it's over now, knowing the police find the body makes me feel better."

To the family which had never known what had befallen their child, then ten years old, since she walked hand-in-hand with a stranger into one of America's most mystifying kidnappings, the swift solution came as a shock.

"It was a horrible thing," said her father, Albert Budd, "and this makes it worse."

The father and a brother of the girl, Edward—who originally had been marked for the murder—contested Fish and identified him as the man who disappeared with Grace. He was charged with homicide and kidnapping.

Police pounced upon Fish in a downtown postoffice substation yesterday while he waited for a remittance from a son in a CCC camp.

Trace Letter

The last of a series of cruel letters to the Budd family had been received only a few days ago, written on the stationery of an employment agency, and tracing it back, police came to the camp.

Spontaneously Fish launched into a confession, but he was cut short and taken to police headquarters where he told a complete and coherent story. Its text was not divulged, but Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine said it ran thus:

Contemplating the killing in advance, the man had bought a meat cleaver, saw and butcher knife, wrapped them in a tarpaulin and checked them at a newsstand.

Then he went to call at the tenement home of the Budds, whose son Edward had advertised for a farm job. Fish represented himself as one Frank Howard, and said he had a farm near Farmington, a farm that existed only in his imagination.

He intended to take the 18-year-old boy with him and kill him, but upon meeting the family was captivated by delicate little Grace, with her big blue eyes and brown hair, and marked her instead for the massacre.

Promised Party

He returned a few days later—it was June 3, 1928—said he was not coming to his farm until the next day, and invited Grace to accompany him that day to a party he said his sister was giving for some children.

Delightedly, the child pinned a rose on her white dress and went with him to death.

After picking up his baleful bundle, Fish took her by train to

She Helps Mother In Baby Race

Mrs. Matthew Kenny, leading contender in Canada's "maternity sweepstakes," is pictured in a Toronto hospital smiling broadly as a nurse holds her eleventh child since 1926. With this new baby, a girl, Mrs. Kenny will attempt to win the $500,000 provided by the will of the late Charles Vance Miller, millionaire sportsman, for the Toronto mother giving birth to the greatest number of children during a 10-year period ending October, 1936.

Salem Youth Cast In "Stags at Bay" Play At Princeton

(By Associated Press) PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 14.—"Stags at Bay," 46th annual production of the Princeton university Triangle club, will make its bow in McCarter theater tonight.

After a second performance here Saturday, the club will take the show on the road for its annual Christmas vacation tour covering 4,000 miles through the east and middle west.

The production is a musical comedy depicting debutante life on Long Island.

Brooks Bowman '36 of Salem, is a member of the cast.

STATE RUSHES TAX MACHINE

R. P. Bartholow Named Administrator Of Sales Tax

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—The state of Ohio began today to rush to completion a ponderous machine to handle the sales tax, a tiny unit so far as pennies added to individual sales go but gigantic in the $56,000,000 the state hopes to amass next year.

The coupons will not go on sale before Jan. 10, the state tax commission announced.

Furthermore, State Tax Commissioner Carlton S. Dargusch said the sales tax administration machinery was being built on a permanent basis despite the one year limit on the levy signed by the governor yesterday.

Bartholow Administrator

To R. P. Bartholow, head of the commission's excise tax section was assigned the task of administering the sales tax. He was promoted to head the new division. His assistant in the excise division, G. R. Johnston, was elevated to Bartholow's former post.

Contracts to print 350,000,000 tax coupons were awarded and the commission extended to Dec. 31, the time for licensing approximately 125,000 retailers in the state.

Between 200 and 300 persons will be employed in the headquarters office of the sales tax section, Dargusch said.

School Districts Cheerful

Final enactment of the sales tax brought cheerful reports from many school districts. Officials said the receipts in sight dispelled a cloud of doubt over continued operations and service.

Meantime, the legislature which worked so long before it adopted the sales tax and other revenue measures left a far-reaching memorandum behind it for lawmakers of future days to regard favorably.

Governor White signed a bill which will allow all members $5 a day expense funds after they have been in session 120 days. The law will not be effective before the 92nd general assembly convenes in 1937.

Plan Construction Of Two Zinc Mills

(By Associated Press) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 14.—An order from the Ever Ready Co. of London, Eng., for a complete semi-continuous Zinc strip rolling mill has been received by the Lewis Foundry and Machine Co., president Frank Cordes announced. A similar installation is being constructed for Abell Bros. Co. of Muncie, Ind., together, they will be the two largest plants of the kind in the world, Zinc men say.

BANK ROBBERS SCOOP UP $10,000

Assistant Cashier Forced To Open Doors of Vault

(By Associated Press) TOLEDO, O., Dec. 14.—Three robbers escaped with more than $10,000 today after holding up two employees of the Woodville, O., State Savings bank near here.

Two of the robbers had broken into the bank before employees arrived and were waiting behind a partition at the rear when F. W. Keil, assistant cashier, came in the front door. They had gained entrance by jimmying a window in the basement. The third robber waited at the wheel of an automobile at the side of the bank.

As Keil appeared, one of the men, with a handkerchief over his face, confronted him with a demand to "stick them up."

They forced Keil to open the vault. A few minutes later, A. W. Emch, came into the bank and he also was forced into the vault where the robbers took all the money in sight.

As the robbers left, they locked Emch and Keil, who is Emch's assistant, in the vault where they remained until Miss Alma Soldan, a bookkeeper, arrived a few minutes later and opened the vault door.

Columbia School Pupils to Present Two-Act Operetta

An operetta in two acts, directed by Miss Lena Beardmore and Miss Alma Fleisher, will be presented by pupils of Columbia st. school at the school building the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 19 and 20. The operetta is entitled "Polly Make Believe" and was written by Estelle Merryman Clark and Carol Christopher.

The performances will be presented at 7:30 each evening and a matinee for children will be given at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 18. Between the acts a "slight of hand" performance will be given by P. L. Woodford of Salem and music will be furnished by the first grade orchestra chorus.

The pupils taking part in the operetta and the parts they will portray follow:

Polly Make-Believe, Mary Lou Cope; Lassie, Jane Davidson; Mack, (her brother) Frederick Schmidt; Jimmy, Lowell Hopperich; Ebenezer, Patsy Nocera; Mrs. O'Toole, Aseneth Ehrhart; Boy Scout, John Taffin; Bud and Dot, rich children, William Theiss, Emma Bauman; Becky, Helen Louise Theiss; Lil, Shirley Crawford; Buttons, John Dan; Rosie, Elizabeth Volio.

The juvenile grange plans to have a Christmas party and exchange of gifts at its next meeting, Dec. 26.

The grange members will meet again Dec. 26, and a Christmas program will be presented by the I. C. Bean family.

Three-Month-Old Daughter Of Slain Missionaries Is Found; Enroute To Mission

Means of Rescue Not Made Known Immediately; Government Troops In Pursuit of Bandits Who Murdered Child's Parents

(By Associated Press) SHANGHAI, Dec. 14.—A report from Tsingteh said tonight that little Helen Priscilla Stam, three months old daughter of the murdered American missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stam, had been found alive and was being taken to Wuhu, mission headquarters.

The report of the finding of the baby was relayed here from Wuhu. Wuhu reported that Rev. George Birch of Canada, a member of the China inland mission and stationed near Tsingteh, had the infant and was carrying it to safety. There was no indication as to the health of the child.

Whatever the baby's condition, it is assured of the best medical attention for the entire staff of the American Methodist Episcopal foreign board mission hospital at Wuhu, under the direction of Dr. Robert Brown, awaits the child's arrival.

It came into the world at that hospital Sept. 11 by a Caesarian operation.

It was not immediately indicated how the rescue had been made, although it was known that government troops were in pursuit of the bandits who raided the city of Tsingteh, murdered the baby's parents, and presumably kidnapped the child.

The bodies of the young Stams were found deserted on a battlefield 15 miles from Tsingteh.

Other missionaries in three southern provinces are reported to be evacuating their stations.

A letter written by Stam shortly before his death disclosed that he and his family were held for a ransom of 20,000 Chinese silver dollars (about $7,000).

Stam was a native of Paterson, N. J., while his wife, the daughter of missionaries, was born in China. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kofield, of Bend, Ore., reported to have disappeared at about the time the Stams were abducted, are safe, a telegram to the China Inland Mission said. They are at Tunk.

Under instructions from Washington, a Peiping dispatch said, Clarence Gauss, charge d'affaires of the American legation, made further representations to Nanking and Anhwei provincial authorities. He urged renewed efforts to arrest the culprits.

A spokesman for the foreign office of the national government said the kidnappers of the couple were "murderers and bandits and not Chinese Communists, as was once reported."

NEW SHOPPING RECORD SEEN

Ohio Reports Heaviest Buying Since Before Depression

Ohio, with just a bit of disposition to pause more than usual over knick-knacks, is spending more money on Christmas gifts this year. Before the shopping period ends, a survey conducted by the Associated Press disclosed today, the volume of sales may be boosted to total far exceeding anything realized since before the depression.

Increases ranging from "slight" to 50 per cent over the sales up to a corresponding period in 1933 were reported from 18 cities. Not one reported this year's Christmas shopping volume to have slackened from a year ago.

Practical gifts, said the merchants, were continuing to hold the greatest appeal.

As another indication of the trend of the times, scores of merchants said they had noted a disposition by buyers to be more discriminating than in the last several seasons. Where last year, most purchases had been made on a price basis, buyers this season were selecting their gifts for quality and showing a remarkable ability to sort out the better articles, irrespective of price.

In Cleveland, where sales were reported running 15 per cent ahead of a year ago, merchants said luxury items were well up. In Hamilton, where an increase of 35 per cent was noted, luxury items were credited with much of the gain. Middletown, reporting a 35 per cent gain with a possibility of equalling 1930 "The last good year," and Canton, noting a 15 per cent increase, both reported a disposition by buyers to sort out the quality goods.

Hundreds of extra clerks have been added in stores throughout the state, the additional forces being among the largest in several seasons.

They are: Worshipful Master, A. P. Morris; senior warden, H. C. Hurlbut; junior warden, J. H. Giffin; treasurer, V. R. McBane; secretary, E. R. Woods, senior deacon, C. I. Beller, junior deacon, C. V. Rakestraw; tyler, J. H. Campbell, and chaplain, E. H. Taylor.

The installation service was conducted by Past Master R. R. Woods, assisted by H. C. Glickler as grand marshal.

Claims Newspaper Advertising Has Gained In Value

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 14.—"A dollar's worth of newspaper advertisement now is worth more than $1.50 worth was in 1929," Jack Gillespie, secretary of the commercial division of the Youngstown Chamber of Commerce, told the Lions club yesterday.

Firms that have the courage to start to advertise now and keep it up will reap a rich harvest. The advertising dollar in the newspaper today calls greater attention than in 1929.

Gillespie said three essentials in advertising were the use of simple words, telling a full story and keeping it up.

"You can't coast on previous advertising. You have to keep it up," he asserted.

BANDITS FREE POLICE CHIEF

Kansas Officer Released Unhurt After Abduction by Gunmen

(By Associated Press) ARKANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 14.—A widespread search for Art Calkins, Herington, Kas., chief of police who was kidnapped yesterday by two gunmen, ended early today with his release after 14 hours in the hands of his abductors.

Calkins, kidnapped yesterday when he sought to question one of the men regarding the purchase of revolver ammunition, was released unharmed four miles east of Kildare, Okla., early today.

Brought here to meet friends who were to return him to Herington, the chief declined to go into details of the kidnapping.

"I have a hunch why I was picked up but I won't say why," he said.

After being tied and gagged, Calkins said he was taken to a hideout 30 miles southeast of Herington, where he was guarded until night-fall.

Then, he said, the gunmen ordered him into their motor car and drove south toward the place where he was released. The chief said he could not identify his abductors.

Gets Car Order

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 14.—An order for 100 steel hopper cars has been placed with the Pressed Steel Car Co., at an estimated cost of $2,500 each, the Bessemer and Lake Erie railroad announced. They will be of 50 tons capacity and will be deliverable in 60 days, it was said.

TWO TOWNSHIPS WANT SCHOOLS

County Superintendent Explains St. Clair, Knox Problem

St. Clair and Knox townships are in a race to have a high or centralized school erected in these townships by funds provided by the state department of education, aided by additional funds from the FEPA, County Superintendent of Schools W. E. Roberts said today upon his return from a conference at Columbus.

Knox township residents met last Saturday night at Homeworth, determined to secure a centralized school, and groups that were at odds before, relative to the location of such a school, have "buried the hatchet," Roberts explained.

Grade School Assured

A six grade school to be built at Calcutta, St. Clair township, is assured. In the event residents of that township do not want a centralized school, then funds for this project will be transferred to Knox township.

An effort is also being made to have a high school re-established at Hanoverton, as children from that district attending high school now have to be transported to Augusta, Carroll county.

High School Desired

Knox township people want a high school, as many children from that part of the county now attend high school at Alliance. In the event of the building of a high school in Knox township, it will probably be located on an improved highway near Homeworth.

Should a high school be built in St. Clair township a site at Calcutta would be procured.

Stuebenville Mills Put More To Work

(By Associated Press) STEUBENVILLE, Dec. 14.—Signs of returning better times were recorded here with announcements from two steel mills of increased working schedules.

Declaring that "if we had more mills to operate we'd put them on," W. H. Warren, manager of the Stuebenville plant of the Wheeling Steel Corp., said 11 open hearth furnaces were producing steel. At the same time he predicted a continuation of capacity operations for an indefinite term.

Ten additional tin mills will be put into operation at the Weirton, W. Va., plant Sunday night, J. C. Williams, president of the Weirton Steel Co., declared. This will double their output and operations at the Stuebenville plant, described as "steady" will continue at their present rate, he said.

Wearry Hitch-Hiker Back In Ohio Home

(By Associated Press) MARION, Dec. 14.—George Hall, 77-year-old hitch-hiker, rested at home today, awaiting the decision of old age pension authorities on whether he is entitled to state aid.

Hall hitch-hiked all the way to his sister's home in New Jersey in search of a family Bible to prove his content on that he was old enough to be granted a pension. Officials said they could tell "by looking at him" he was over the 65 year minimum.

He hitch hiked back to Ohio, he said, revealing the entire trip cost him only $3.50.

House Is Razed

The one room house on the Firestone property in Valley, which was occupied by Quincy Boomer, who operates a saw mill on the same property, was burned to the ground last night. The fire, which neighbors say was caused by an overheated stove, started about 8:30 p. m. Mr. Boomer was not at home.

THIRD SUSPECT IN DRUG STORE ROBBERY HELD

Joseph Mallica, Akron, Is Caught In Roundup Of Criminals

FACES JUDGE LYON IN COMMON PLEAS

Two Others Arrested In Same Case In 1933 Acquitted

Joseph Mallica of Akron, arrested there recently during a general roundup of criminals, has been returned to the county jail in Lisbon to answer to a charge of robbing the People's Drug store here in March, 1933.

He was to be arraigned before Judge J. H. C. Lyon of Mahoning county in common pleas court today. Judge Lyon is exchanging benches with Judge W. F. Lones this week.

Mallica was indicted for this robbery with James LaFatch and Joseph Jambol, and the latter two after two trials were acquitted by a jury.

When LaFatch and Jambol were first tried, the case was heard by visiting Judge J. H. C. Lyon, and after waiting until nearly 4 o'clock the morning after the jury was sent to the jury room, a disagreement was reported to the court. The jury was then discharged.

LaFatch and Jambol were called to trial again, and the jury in this case returned a verdict of acquittal. A capias was issued for the arrest of Mallica, but he evaded arrest, until he was picked up a few days ago in the roundup staged by Akron police.

Three Romances of Movie Colony On the Rocks Today

(By Associated Press) HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 14.—Three movie colony romances, one of nearly 20 years duration, another only two weeks old, became just memories today.

Charles Ray, one of the brightest stars of silent pictures, was sued for divorce by Mrs. Clara Grant Ray. She charged desertion, non-support and cruelty. They were married Nov. 15, 1913 and separated August 1, 1932.

Complaining a chaperoned honeymoon did not appeal to her, June Knight, the actress, sued her New York broker husband of two weeks, Paul Ames, for divorce.

Elizabeth Allen, English screen actress who came to Hollywood two years ago, announced she and William O'Bryan, London manager, had separated and probably will be divorced.

Mrs. Ray's suit came as her husband struggled along the weary-some comeback trial in the movies. Once wealthy, the reputed possessor of a $2,000,000 fortune, Ray has said he lost everything in his efforts to produce his own pictures.

BEST WISHES FOR 1935

The first effect of the sales tax, whose passage was assured when the general assembly met Gov. White's demand for a higher tax on income, will be to stimulate Christmas business. The sales tax probably will become effective about the middle of January. Naturally, a vast deal of spending will be done before then to evade the tax, in cases where the money is available. The bulk of Christmas trade will be larger this year than it would have been without the new sales tax.

This is, of course, an incidental and wholly unpremeditated result of the tax's enactment. It may be used, however, as a symbol of what Ohio hopes the sales tax is going to do. The general assembly, adjourned permanently now, figuratively presented this important tax to the state with "Best Wishes for 1935" attached. The assembly hadn't been expected to do anything. It surprised Ohio and itself, too, by enacting a tax program which should avert serious financial breakdowns in the state's various divisions of government.

The sales tax is the whole program, as far as public interest is concerned. It is new, in Ohio. It is controversial. It is a money-maker. It is going to be painfully obvious when it is collected.

The tax has been enacted for one year, which means that before the end of 1935 Ohio must decide whether or not its time should be extended. At present there is every reason to believe the tax will have to be continued. Only a combination of economic recovery and an ingenious patchwork of special taxes could supply the state with the money it requests, if the sales tax were to be limited to one year.

Ohio is resigned to paying 3 percent on the dollar, even though not pleased. The levy is for replacement purposes. When real estate owners and promoters reduced the property tax limit from 15 mills to 10 mills, they made a replacement tax imperative. The sales tax was the solution. Gov. White recommended its enactment at the outset. The assembly, after long hesitation, finally realized there wasn't any pleasant way to do what had to be done. The medicine is bitter, but the patient is willing to have a go at it for the sake of pulling through.

SHOUTS AND WHISPERS

Every American who isn't hoping for trouble wants national recovery to occur as early as possible next year. Further than that, there is little agreement.

One group believes recovery will occur. One group believes it could, if certain things were to be done. A third group doesn't believe the proper things will be done. A minor division, which found a famous spokesman last week, doesn't believe it is necessary to do anything.

"Why, damn it," said Charles G. Dawes, speaking of complete recovery by next July. "It's as sure as the tides." Nothing the federal government can do, asserted the former general, can hasten recovery or delay it. President Roosevelt restored confidence; he can't do anything more.

Mr. Dawes represents the first group, which believes recovery will happen. Col. Leonard P. Ayres of Cleveland is a distinguished spokesman for the group which believes there could be recovery if it were assisted properly. A year ago Col. Ayres predicted 1934 would be a year of conflicting theories, actions and little progress toward recovery. This year he makes the same prediction, with this difference. He points out three things which, if they were changed, would make recovery possible.

The national recovery act must be modified to eliminate fear of profit restriction, he declares. The government must move sharply toward a balanced budget and issuance of securities must be stimulated by removal of restrictions. If these things are done, Col. Ayres will be hopeful of recovery. If they are not done, he believes there will be another slow year.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr. may be qualified to speak for the group which doesn't believe the right things will be done. Mr. Sloan sees tremendous opportunities, but he says, "Let us relegate to the museum of economic monstrosities the theory of scarcity as a factor in promoting industrial recovery." For the simple reason that the theory of scarcity seems solidly entrenched in the policy of the Roosevelt administration, Mr. Sloan seems to be taking a defeatist attitude. These samples of 1935 predictions, first in the market, indicate the confusion which will prevail among prophets this year-end.

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, December 15

A particularly lively and eventful day is presaged by the important operations of the major planets. In employment there is prospect of advancement, favors or preferment from superiors, and generally benefits from elders may be expected. Real possessions, tenancies, all pertaining to labor or industry should thrive.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very eventful and lively year, with much stirring in the way of advancement, preferment, favoritism and friendly recognition of superiors, employers or elderly persons or institutions. New contracts, all pertaining to writings, publicity or promotion should flourish, but be alert to secret hostilities, fraud or treachery. Gains through property are shown.

A child born on this day should be lively, versatile, industrious and ambitious and should succeed in employment, labor and gain the support of important personages.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—Thoughts while strolling: That rue de Rivoli shopping paradise suddenly sprung up on Madison avenue. A modern-the bird-cage—$325. A clock in Lalique glass $4,000. A few months ago Bert Lahr seemed in oblivion. And now everybody is imitating him again.

Edith Barrett and Katharine Hepburn bear a resemblance. They say Dorothy Parker, who used to hoot, is so sold on Hollywood she may stay permanently. James Thurber, now The New Yorker's ace, was once a $14-a-week Riviera correspondent. Never saw Arthur Brisbane at the theatre.

Captain Bob Bartlett in front of the old Murray Hill Hotel. No one ever feels like yoo-hooing at Harry Richman's lip. Margaret Whiteman has more hate than anybody. Joe Fejer is still fiddling around. Otto Kahn featured him at private parties. Doesn't George Horace Lorimer ever come to New York?

Brooks Atkinson, the scholarly Times critic, suggests a plow boy with a Menjou mustache. Nothing jauntier than one of those white muffers John Barrymore used to wear. Courtney Cooper's two Boston, Michael and Timothy. Whatever became of Marshall Montgomery, the ventriloquist?

Insiders say Jimmy Walker will not only be home for New Year's eve but his table has been reserved at the Casino. Jean Douglas, the poet. Once a newstand girl at the Majestic. One word description of Elsa Maxwell—buckitty. Quit shoving women! I'll walk under the mistletoe.

The watch and clock collection of Robert L. Hague is finest in the world. Hague, husband of Mary Lewis, owns a fleet of oil tankers, is patron saint of the Lambs and his horological hobby is result of extreme frustration in youth when the thing he wanted most—but could not buy—was a silver, stem-winding hunting case watch. Now a millionaire, he has agents abroad who forward specifications and photographs of new and old models as well as those that seep up from antiquity. He has one watch a millimetre thinner than a $20 gold piece made by a Swiss who spent five years assembling it.

Kate Smith, supersensitive over her size, has drawn almost completely from public appearance and finds outlet in charity work. A big gal with a big heart. She is reputed to have $900,000 salted in annuities. One week she made $31,000.

Word comes back from Southern California that the indefatigable world wanderer, Tippy Gray, has finally found anchorage. For 15 years he has led the blow-torch life fitting to all corners of the earth. As Clifford Gray he has written tunes for the Folies Bergere. And as Tippy Gray he has been prominent in bob sledding at St. Moritz and Lake Placid. Recently he purchased a hacienda near Hollywood and has taken up tennis and sunshine permanently. At least so he thinks.

Another of the perpetual international gad-about is Tommy Millard, quondam war correspondent and traveling journalist, who moves swiftly from Shanghai to San Francisco, New York, London, Paris and all world capitals like a leaf on the wind. Born in a Missouri village back of beyond he has been around the world so often he quit counting. Unlike most seasoned travelers, he does not go lightly. A dandy, he carries a brace of wardrobe trunks that provide everything from full regalia for an embassy ball to tweedy togs for a hunt breakfast.

Every traveler learns the misery of packing negligence. It was Watterson Rothacker, I believe, who was a deck chair neighbor of an ambassador. In the informality of shipboard Rothacker indulged the usual—can you handle it?—garrulous divagations. The ambassador pointed to his throat and replied with pencil and pad. But one day he fell asleep in his chair, his face folding up like an accordion. Rothacker then knew his secret. He had forgotten stickum for his dental plates.

Don't Wait for Child to "Outgrow" Cross-Eye

A great many children are cross-eyed. This is too bad, but when proper steps are taken it is possible to correct this defect and prevent other serious disturbances of the eye. In former years, unfortunately, little effort was made to straighten the eyes.

Today, with our advanced knowledge of what to do in the treatment of disorders of the eye and with improved skill in the surgery of the delicate organ the defect is readily overcome. This is a great thing for the happiness of the child who has been extremely conscious of his defect. He shuns companions and often develops an inferiority complex in consequence of his affliction.

I am glad to say most mothers are aware that cross-eye is a great handicap. They should consult the physician when the child is of an early age. This is important because energetic measures taken while the child is still young will result in development of the vision. While the eye may be strengthened, it is difficult to correct the impaired function after the child reaches puberty.

Eye Exercises Helpful
In many instances the treatment consists of simple corrective eye exercises. These are given by means of special contrivances. The formerly popular stereoscope is useful here. The young child is attracted by stereoscopic pictures portraying Mother Goose and other familiar nursery characters. The use of these pictures may afford the necessary corrective exercise. They strengthen the eye and overcome muscular weakness. In addition, glasses are prescribed. When the child is old enough to understand and cooperate, certain eye movements are daily practiced.

When these measures fail to bring about correction it may be necessary to resort to operation. Contrary to the common belief, this is not at all a serious operation and need not be feared. In the hands of a competent eye surgeon, it is a simple procedure and the results are more than gratifying.

Don't Outgrow Defect
Do not be misled into thinking that a very young child will outgrow this defect. It is true that he can be helped to outgrow the muscular weakness, but only if corrective eye exercises are used. Never assume the condition to be a temporary one. Be on the safe side and consult with your physician.

Another mistake often made by young mothers is they neglect to provide the necessary glasses. If your child has been advised to wear glasses, it is important that they be worn regularly. It will be helpful to know that there is always the probability that the glasses may be discarded after a while. But benefit can be obtained only by conscientiously wearing the prescribed lenses and strictly following other instructions.

Westchester hideaway which was to be unoccupied. He had a nearby house eight years old, the child to play in the yard and the other guests arrived. The hideaway was laid out in a roomy array of tools and furniture. She came to him. Three days later before he was to leave, it was there that they found the body last night, the few bones and tattered pieces of a tarpaulin. The police, pointing out the traces of the nervous little man, turned to police headquarters in her family. Without their unceasing inquiries, police had been hindered than helped by the family. The hideaway had been identified several days ago, and the man was to be acquitted later by the jury of the courts. This family is sure—and so are the authorities.

The said Fish was the father of the children, had been estranged from his wife for years, and had been arrested several times, on charges of grand larceny. He had been arrested after coming from the very district from which the Grace Budd.

McKee Yawned, Now Yawns 10-12 Times Each Minute

(By Associated Press)

AND GROVE, Ill., Dec. 14.—Handed McKee, 35, greeted the crowd with a yawn. He has been yawning continuously since 4 p. m. Sunday except for brief respites induced by the use of opiates. Early today she approached her 110th hour of yawned yawning, and doctors are anxious to know how to make her stop.

H. L. Pettit, her physician, assigns no reason for the yawning other than extreme nervousness due to caring for an ill child and a 9-year-old son who is diabetic.

10-12 Times a Minute
The yawning is unmatched in medical history known to Dr. Pettit and his assistants. The affliction attacked Mrs. McKee when she apparently was in good health. Suddenly she started yawning and even the effect of powerful drugs brings her only temporary respite.

She yawns 10 to 12 times a minute. She is able to obtain nourishment when she is aroused from her opiate-induced naps, but Dr. Pettit is concerned over her ability to endure the protracted strain.

Gas Head Dies

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Secretary of the Ohio Gas Oil Men's association, for 16 years, William H. Simpson, 65, is dead here of a heart disease. He resigned his position three months ago, formerly practiced law in Cleveland and was a graduate of Ohio university. He was a lawyer in Mount Vernon and is going to Cleveland.

WORTH, Texas.—An electric bulb has burned continuously for 26 years in the hallway of the stage and dressing room at the Palace theater here. It has never been turned off and the only times it ceased to burn was when the city power was shut off.

13 Travelers May Spend Holidays In R.R. Passenger Car

(By Associated Press)

HORNEPAYNE, Ont., Dec. 14.—The unwelcome possibility of spending Christmas in Hornepayne instead of London, faced 13 travelers today.

They were in quarantine in a railway passenger car because a man who occupied it for half an hour had smallpox.

Twenty-six passengers originally were hastening eastward to board steamers for England to spend the holidays. A man was taken aboard at Kowash, Ont., and 30 minutes later it was discovered he had smallpox.

Some Vaccinated
The car was switched to a siding and a quarantine placed on it. Thirteen passengers and a news agent were allowed to leave when they showed they had been vaccinated within the last seven years and expressed willingness to submit to a new vaccination.

A physician from the Ontario health department was en route here to determine if the remaining passengers could proceed. Otherwise they will stay—at the railroad company's expense—but it will hardly be like Christmas in England.

For amusement the 13 had talk, bridge, books and a view of Hornepayne, hardly more than a village.

Open Road Bids

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Bids were to be opened tomorrow by the state highway department, on work in five counties, including Ghersey, Mercer, Preble, Ross, and Trumbull. Tomorrow, lettings will be announced on work in Geauga, Shelby and Summit counties, the total outlay involved will be approximately $385,382.

FHA CHAIRMEN TO MEET TODAY

County Housing Officials Hold Group Rally At Lisbon

A group meeting of all federal housing administration chairmen in Columbiana county is scheduled this afternoon at the office of County Relief Director E. M. Lowry, third floor of the court house at Lisbon.

O. C. Caldwell, chairman of the local district, today announced the appointment of J. J. Bennett, Carl D. Turner and Leland Firestone as members of a finance committee. An advisory committee will not be selected until next week.

Information Available

A bureau of information concerning the FHA work has been set up at the office of the Lisbon Lumber Co. A number of inquiries already have been made concerning the routine to be followed before loans can be obtained to repair homes.

An application will be filed by this group with Director Lowry for a group of men to make a survey of all homes in the district, and list repairs that are required.

Any property owner, individual, partnership or corporation with a regular income from salary, commission, business or other assured source can apply for loans to any financial institution approved by the FHA, in any amount up to $2,000. The loans are to be discounted monthly, with seasonal payments by farmers.

U. S. Civil Service Exams Announced

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an open competitive examination as follows:

Master mechanic, aircraft-engine manufacture, $11.04 to $17.04 a day. Naval Aircraft Factory, Philadelphia, Pa. Specified experience required. Closing date, January 5, 1935.

The salaries named are subject to a deduction of not to exceed 5 per cent during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, as a measure of economy, and also to a deduction of 3 1/2 per cent toward a retirement annuity.

Full information may be obtained from F. O. Heston, secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post office in this city.

Debate Code Wages

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Question of whether the PWA wage rate for Ohio, or the union rate for Cleveland and vicinity should be paid on construction of a post office at Berea, O., was before the public works labor review board today. Paul H. Mitchell, city solicitor for Berea, in a brief submitted to the board, supports the PWA scale, as does the contractor, but union labor spokesmen argued otherwise. The PWA minimum is $1.20 an hour for skilled workers and 50 cents for unskilled.

Pay Bonus as Relief Measure?

Senator Pat Harrison

Bonus army at capitol.

World war veterans are expected to make another attempt to secure passage of legislation for the payment of the bonus at the next congressional session in January. While the fate of the bill is speculative, Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, has predicted that congress will adopt a compromise bonus program. Such a program, it is said, would provide for the payment of certificates of those veterans in need, converting the veterans' bill into a relief measure.

New High School Teachers Welcomed At Dinner Party

Faculty Members and Wives Attend Delightful Fete At Mansion Tea House

Honoring new teachers who have been added to the staff of the high school for the 1934-35 term, members of the faculty and their wives enjoyed a delightful dinner party Wednesday evening at the Mansion tea house, South Lincoln ave.

Dinner was served at a table festive in tones of red and green, with a large crystal bowl filled with a beautiful bouquet of red poinsettias placed on a large mirror used as a centerpiece. Tall red tapers in crystal holders were placed effectively half way between the centerpiece and the end of the long table. Covers were laid for 36, and at each place, five-line limericks concerning each individual were used as place cards. They were composed by Miss Lois Lehman, who was chairman in charge of the arrangements of the party. The new teachers were requested to read the limericks.

Following the dinner there was an exchange of "White Elephant" gifts, distributed by Lewis T. Smith, who was dressed as Santa Claus. Bridge proved to be the main diversion of the evening hours and high score honors were won by Mrs. H. M. Jones and Frederick Cope.

Missionary Group Entertained

Mrs. Mary Whitacre entertained members of the Women's Missionary society of the Gurney Friends church at her home in Winona Thursday afternoon.

Following the business session an interesting program was presented, which included these numbers: A poem, "My Substitute", Mrs. Frances Black; reading, "When Christmas Keeps the Keeper", Mrs. Sina Megrall; history of the hymn, "Hold the Fort", (P. P. Bliss) Mrs. Whitacre; special music, "Dusky Hands", and "The Bible in the Chinese Eyes", (Charles Matti, a missionary in China) Mrs. Ida Stratton; paper, "This Is India" and a poem, "Cross and Crown", Mrs. Elizabeth Cope; a poem, "His Call", Mrs. Bertha Stoudt.

Mrs. Lydia Brantingham gave a report of "Temperance and Missions", which was given in pleasant form at the national Women's Christian Temperance Union convention in Cleveland recently.

The officers will be installed at the first meeting in January. At the next meeting, which will be Dec. 27, there will be initiation.

Pythian Sisters Hold Election

Friendship temple, No. 100, P. Mason sisters, met last evening at the K. of P. hall, North Broadway.

The following officers were elected: Most excellent chief, Mrs. Elmer Stokes; past chief, Mrs. Otis Flick; excellent senior, Mrs. John Roberts; excellent junior, Mrs. Clifford Christy; manager of the temple, Miss Mary Elizabeth Fall; mistress of finance, Mrs. L. The business meeting was followed by a social time during which refreshments were served by the social committee. Mrs. Effie Shaw won the gift prize.

The officers will be installed at the first meeting in January. At the next meeting, which will be Dec. 27, there will be initiation.

Officers Named By Ladies Aid

During the business meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the Emmanuel Lutheran church, Wednesday evening in the church parlor, the annual election of officers was held.

Officers are: President, Mrs. Mike Linder; secretary, Mrs. John Schenker; treasurer, Mrs. Steve Fronius.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. George Snyder and Mrs. Mike Ratscher. The topic of discussion during the evening was "The Meaning of Christmas."

The next meeting will be held the second Wednesday in January.

Mrs. John Walton Is Hostess

Mrs. John Walton was the recipient of a shower of lovely gifts Thursday afternoon when members of the Cheerful club gathered at her home on West Second st., to celebrate her birthday anniversary.

A coverdish luncheon was served at 3 o'clock. Appropriate seasonal appointments were used in decorating the table.

There was an exchange of gifts following the luncheon and Mrs. Del Baisley was awarded the contest prize.

Mrs. Lucy Blythe and Mrs. R. M. Kloos were guests.

The club will meet again Dec. 27.

C. D. of A. Holds Meeting

Members of Salem Court No. 1021, Catholic Daughters of America, met Thursday evening at the Knights of Columbus hall on South Broadway.

Cards were enjoyed during the social period following the business meeting and prizes were awarded as follows: Bridge, Mrs. Herman Kinsley, "500", Mrs. Joseph Louzzenhiser.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Volpe and Mrs. Carmelo Faine.

The next meeting will be held the second Thursday in January at the K. of C. hall.

Thursday Afternoon Club Meets

Mrs. Howard Chamberlain entertained members of the Thursday Afternoon club yesterday at a dessert luncheon.

Christmas appointments were used as table decorations. A two branch silver candelabra holding two red tapers was used as a centerpiece. Miniature Christmas trees were placed effectively at the ends of the table.

Fancywork and visiting were diversions of the afternoon hours.

Mrs. James Atchison will entertain the club at the next meeting, Dec. 27, which will be a Christmas party.

Class Initiated By Elks

Following a pleasant dinner party at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the home on East State st., Salem Lodge No. 305, B. P. O. Elks, initiated a class of new members. There were approximately 75 members in attendance.

An informal social time was enjoyed after the business meeting.

The lodge has completed plans to have a dancing party Wednesday evening at the home for Elks and their guests.

Sunshine Society To Meet

The Sunshine society will hold an all day meeting next Thursday with a coverdish luncheon and a gift exchange as features at the home of Mrs. Edward Brudery on the Georgetown rd. All members are requested to bring their own table service.

Inter-City Baby

Myrtle Seaman

A Chicago court will decide whether five-year-old Myrtle Seaman, above, will grow up in New York or Chicago. Myrtle's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Fahrney Seaman, is suing to have set aside a court order permitting the child's father to have her custody in his New York home 10 months each year. Little Myrtle is heir to the Fahrney millions.

FALLON, Nevada—W. J. Heath, rancher, claims to own the heaviest calf born. The calf, named Baby Jumbo, weighed 127 pounds at birth. It was the second off-spring from a Holstein cow now weighing 1,100 pounds. The average weight of baby Holstein calves at birth is about 75 pounds.

"POCKETS PLEASE" SAYS MISS SIX TO FOURTEEN

Pattern 2087

Mother will like the design of this dress because it's so disarmingly demure. Her young daughter will probably adore it because of its simple front opening—just three buttons to fasten and she's ready for play or school—and also because of its cunning pockets. For pockets that are shifred like these, are much less apt to lose their shape than the flat kind—when little girls fill them a bit too full. Besides, the bodice is smartly gathered on to a nice scalloped yoke—the dainty sleeves end in trip little cuffs—and the round Peter Pan collar is very flattering to young faces. Nice in challis, jersey or cotton fabrics.

Pattern 2087 is available in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 takes 2½ yards 35 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Send for your copy of the ANNE ADAMS' WINTER FASHION BOOK! Crowded with exclusive patterns for the child, the young girl and the matron. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS BUT WHEN ORDERED WITH AN ANNE ADAMS PATTERN IT IS ONLY TEN CENTS. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS FOR BOTH.

Address orders to Salem News Pattern Department, 243 West 17th Street, New York City.

NEWS IN BRIEF

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Kansas City's oldest citizen, Mrs. Elizabeth Chapin, 106, died from a broken hip received in a fall. She attracted attention two years ago when, at the age of 104, she cast her first election ballot.

ST. LOUIS—Zoo attendants are worried over the condition of Jonah, 3,600-pound sea elephant. The animal, valued at $7,500, apparently suffered internal injuries when sliding in or out of the sea serpents pool.

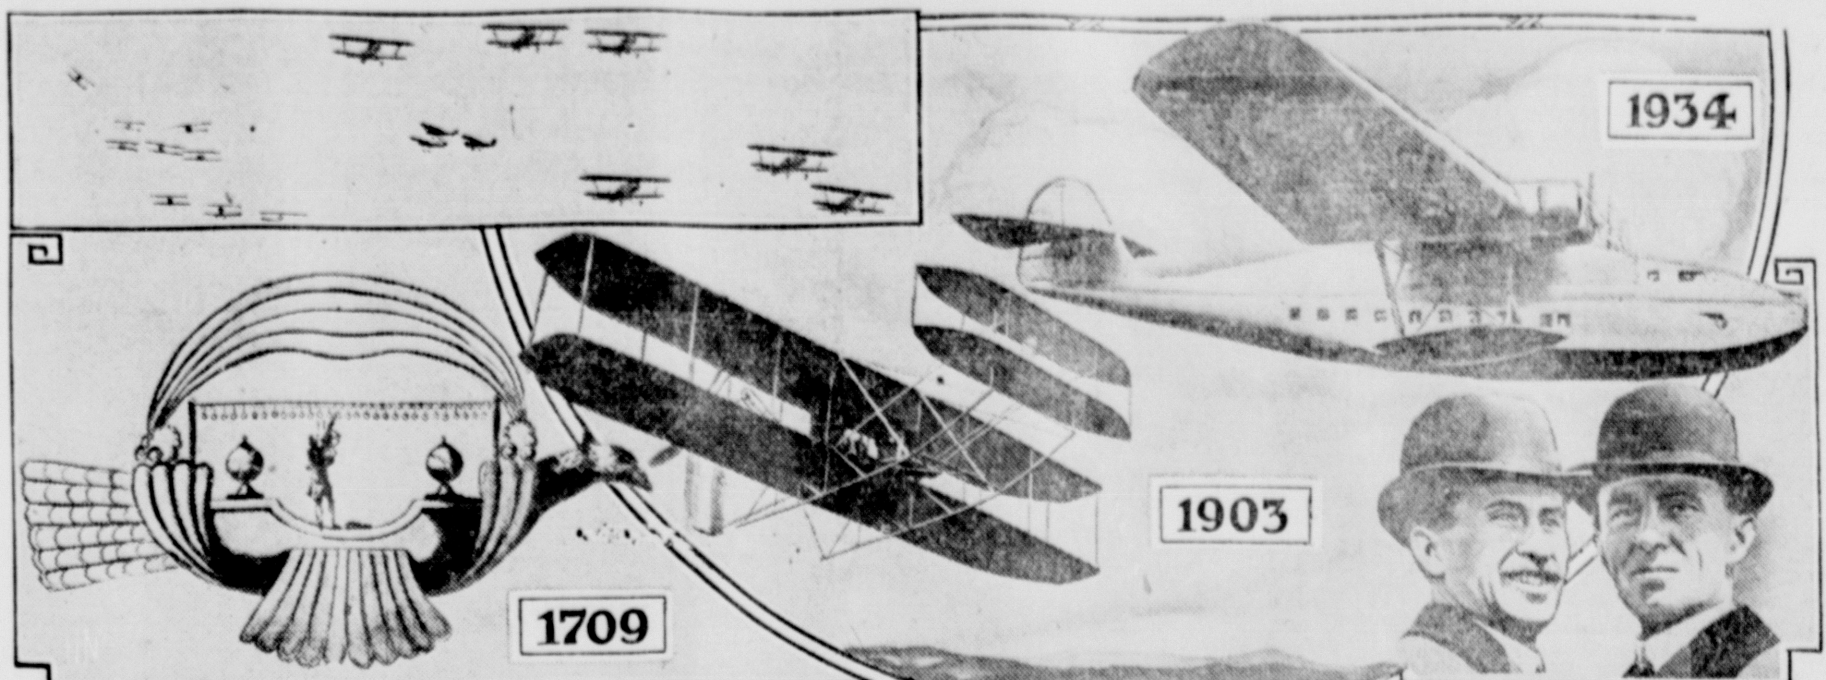

HOUSTON, Texas—The S. A. Gerrard company, of Cincinnati, O., has begun operation of a banana shipping line here, the first regular fruit service to be instituted in Houston. The fruit will be distributed in the Houston trade area.

Father of 35

Joseph Sears, 84, of Dedham, Mass., a carpenter, is revealed as father of 35 children and claimant to title of the all-American father. His first wife, who died 30 years ago, bore him 18. His second, with whom he now lives, is mother of 17. He has 240 living descendants.

225 Years of Flying Machines Told in Pictures on Wright Anniversary

FARMERS MEET AT FAIRFIELD

Large Attendance at First Session; Program Continues Today

COLUMBIANA, Dec. 14.—The annual Fairfield Township Farmers' Institute opened auspiciously Thursday evening in the Columbiana High school auditorium with a good attendance.

The program opened with a half hour concert by the local American Legion band directed by Charles Esserwein. President H. S. Sponseller presided and made the opening remarks and announcements, and the invocation was given by Rev. C. E. Krumm.

Program by Service Clubs

The program for the evening was provided by the Columbiana Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, with Henry Staley as program chairman. Several selections were given by a quartet composed of J. H. Basinger, Henry Calvin, M. B. Temple and E. N. Beardsley, accompanied by Miss Beardsley.

The address was given by Andrew O. Fleming, secretary of the allied relief council, Youngstown.

The Friday morning session was opened with an invocation by Rev. S. L. Fritz and two addresses were given by the state speakers, Mrs. Florence M. Eickmeier and William L. Manahan, both of which proved very interesting. Several selections were given by the High school Glee club directed by Richard Dryden.

Committees were appointed by President Sponseller. At the afternoon session, in addition to the address of Mrs. Eickmeier and Mr. Manahan, a talk on the "Operation and Service of Farmers' Credit Association" was to be given by Hal V. Clark of Warren. Rev. G. S. Strausbaugh gave the invocation and special music was to be furnished by the Columbiana School orchestra, directed by Mr. Dryden.

The Friday evening session is to be of an entertainment nature, featured by numbers by the Four Leas. Mrs. Eickmeier and Mr. Manahan will have talks and a playlet and a sketch will be presented by a Purified group. Ruth Cook is scheduled for a reading.

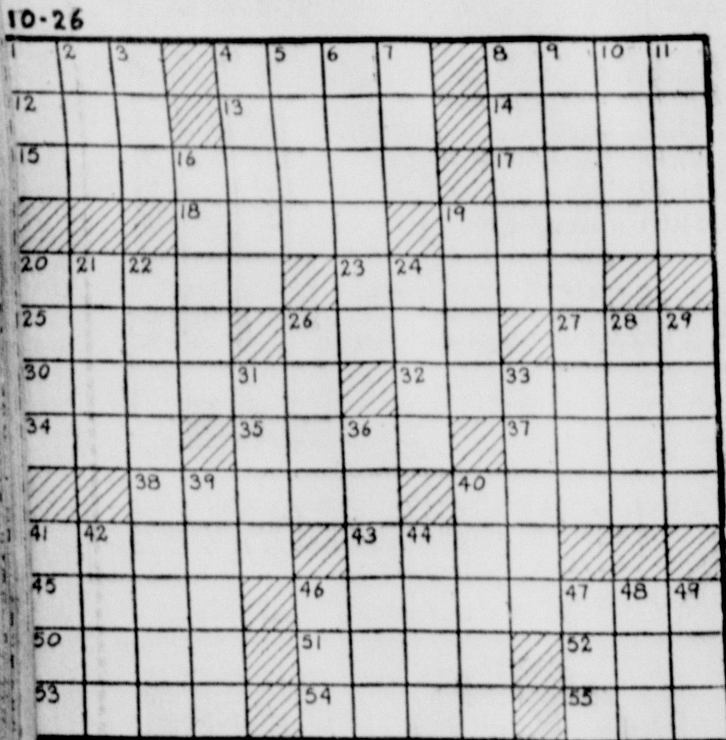

The institute will close with Saturday morning and afternoon sessions. The Fairfield orchestra will furnish music at both sessions and readings will be given by Wanda Arian, Mary Gaughan, Eloise Mcmurry, Irene Brinker and Wilfred Healey. Mrs. Eickmeier and Mr. Manahan will also address each session.

Committees will report and the election of officers will take place at the afternoon session. A feature of the institute this year is an exhibit of potatoes and bread, for which prizes are being awarded to various donors.

Legion Meeting

The monthly business session of Benjamin Firestone post, American Legion, was held Wednesday evening in charge of Commander W. B. Treadwell. The post passed a resolution by which senators and congressmen will be asked to consider the national American Legion program on its merits at the coming congressional session. The Legionnaires will be guests of the auxiliary chapter at a Christmas party in the Legion hall Friday evening, Dec. 28. A Christmas committee composed of R. L. Hawkins, Charles Roller, L. E. Holloway and Commander Treadwell will take care of the donations to be given out at that time.

The December meeting of the "Jolly 25" club was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Lyle Rymer, New Waterford rd. with Mrs. Thomas French as a guest. Mrs. H. L. Chadwick, of Akron, a former member, was awarded a quilt given by the club. Mrs. Ralph Lower read a Christmas story and a gift exchange was a pleasant feature, followed by the serving of refreshments. The business session was in charge of Mrs. Leland Johnson, who later turned over the duties to the new president, Mrs. Wilfred Sheeley. Other new officers are: Vice President, Mrs. H. L. Wise; secretary, Mrs. Ralph Lower; treasurer, Miss Mary Sheeley. Mrs. Sheeley and Miss Sheeley will be hostesses at the January meeting, which will be an all-day quilting.

The Tri-City Luther league will meet Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at the Columbiana Lutheran church. At this time the original play "The True Christmas Spirit," written and directed by Miss Alta Mulch will be presented, the parts being taken by Eleanor Lehman, Ruth Henry, Wilbur Donbar, Sara Fisher, Leonard Lipp, Wanda Yarian, LaRue Miller, Mrs. R. C. Todd, Martha Yarian, James and William Messersmith, Martha Souder, Ruth Wilson and Helen Simpson. The play is a Christmas story interwoven with special music. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Sorosis Club Meets

The Sorosis club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Frederick, South Main st. The program included papers on the New Deal, as follows: "The Task Ahead," Mrs. Harry Sponseller; "Public Servants For Life," Mrs. T. B. Hyland; and "Portable Theaters," Mrs. R. H. Vaughn. A round table discussion followed. The next meeting will be the annual Christmas party Dec. 28 at the Park hotel.

The Bible class of the Christian Sunday school, taught by Clinton Paulk held the monthly social meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Buchner, Middle st., with 25 present. Ralph Peterson had charge of the business session when the following officers were elected:

President, Ralph Peterson, re-elected; vice president, J. A. Todd; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. William Pine; assistant, Mrs. Harry Wilson. The ladies of the class plan to spend a day sewing for the needy. Light refreshments concluded the social period.

Hold Yule Party

The annual Christmas party of the past Noble Grandsclub of Paudora Rebekah lodge was held Thursday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall. A covered supper and a gift exchange were features. The Christmas party of the lodge will be held Monday evening with families of members as guests.

Mrs. Bertha Myers was in East Palestine Thursday evening, where she conducted the inspection of the Rebekah lodge of that city. She was accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Treadwell, Mrs. Kenneth Ferrall and Mrs. R. L. Hawkins.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Nichols of Youngstown, until recently Columbus residents, are the parents of a son who has been named James Eugene.

PARTY HELD BY LEETONIA TOTS

Youngsters of Lutheran Church Entertained at Christmas Fete

LEETONIA, Dec. 14.—The annual party for children up to fourteen years of age and members of the Light Brigade of St. Paul's Lutheran church was held in the church recreation room Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. H. C. Brillhart, superintendent of the Light Brigade, told the children a Christmas story. Recitations were given by Elaine Aiken, Robert Spothol, James Bellhart, Marian Holt and Janice Holt. Anita Stewart and Martha Bellhart sang songs. Games were played, followed by a lunch. The children received their Christmas treats.

Club Entertained

The West Side Community club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Willis Floding, south of town, Wednesday, with a covered dish dinner at noon.

Mrs. Ira C. Schmidt entertained club associates at her home Wednesday afternoon, with two tables of bridge in play.

The Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Lulu Stiver Wednesday evening.

Lectonia Chapter No. 253, O. E. S. has been invited to the installations ceremonies of Miriam Chapter of Youngstown, on December 18th.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kirkbride are the parents of a son born Wednesday at their home on North Walnut street.

Rev. Charles H. Edgar gave a review of the book "The Christian Manifesto" by Lewis at the Columbiana County Book Club of Methodist Church Ministers at Lisbon, Monday.

Drag River for Fire Victims—Survivors Treated

Police are shown, right, dragging the Grand river at Lansing, Mich., for the bodies of more victims in the tragic blaze which destroyed Hotel Kerns in that city. Many of the trapped hotel guests leaped into the ice-filled river to escape the flames and were drowned. Top, left, Fred Van Dyne, of Owosso, Mich., in a hospital for treatment of injuries he received when he leaped from the third floor of the building; below, Frank Sochia, of Grand Rapids, Mich., another survivor of tragedy.

A Review of the Day's News
By Arthur Brisbane

A RATHER dull day. Europe's money is going up, ours going down. The franc is worth more than it was a short time ago in dollars. The pound sterling, on the gold basis like our dollar, is in dollars and cents for more than it did in the good old days. Does Europe suspect us of evil intentions as regards money? If so, the suspicion is wasted. The American dollar is the best dollar in the world. The American nation has the most wealth back of its money. It also has the most gold, but that is not important. Gold means no more than wampum, or cowry shells.

WE MAY have war forced upon us suddenly like a flash of lightning, but President Roosevelt is determined that nobody here shall take any profit out of war. He says: "The time has come to take the profit out of war. The boys in the trenches got $1 a day, and the boys in the munitions factory got $8 to $10 a day."

THAT IS good for far-advanced planning, but if war came suddenly, it would be necessary to get fighting material, poison gas, bombs, fighting airplanes, submarines, in any way possible, as rapidly as possible, regardless of cost.

Last time we spent one thousand millions for airplanes that would not fly. Preparation in advance would have been cheaper. Every department of war is expensive. Munitions cost a lot in the beginning of a war. The "boys in the trenches" are underpaid, to begin with, and ultimately, after they have been gassed and wounded, it is too late to do them any good, they cost a great deal.

Veterans of the big war will cost the nation for pensions FIFTY BILLIONS at least before the whole bill is settled.

TO GET fifty odd millions for the poor, New York City put a two per cent sales tax on virtually everything, except food, bought in the stores.

It was thought this would discourage Christmas buying, discouraging employment in factories, creating a gloom over Christmas. But it appears that the tax has not actually reduced Christmas buying. Small Christmas purchases have increased by ten per cent.

Americans may get used to being used, as cells are supposed to be used to being skinned.

There is no doubt that a nationwide sales tax properly applied and administered would provide the best possible solution of this financial problem. And all merchants would approve it.

PATROLMAN JOHN P. MONAHAN, in plain clothes, and Detective Harry Abramowitz were investigating a gambling case when somebody shot and killed Monahan. Abramowitz, standing by the policeman's coffin, vowed:

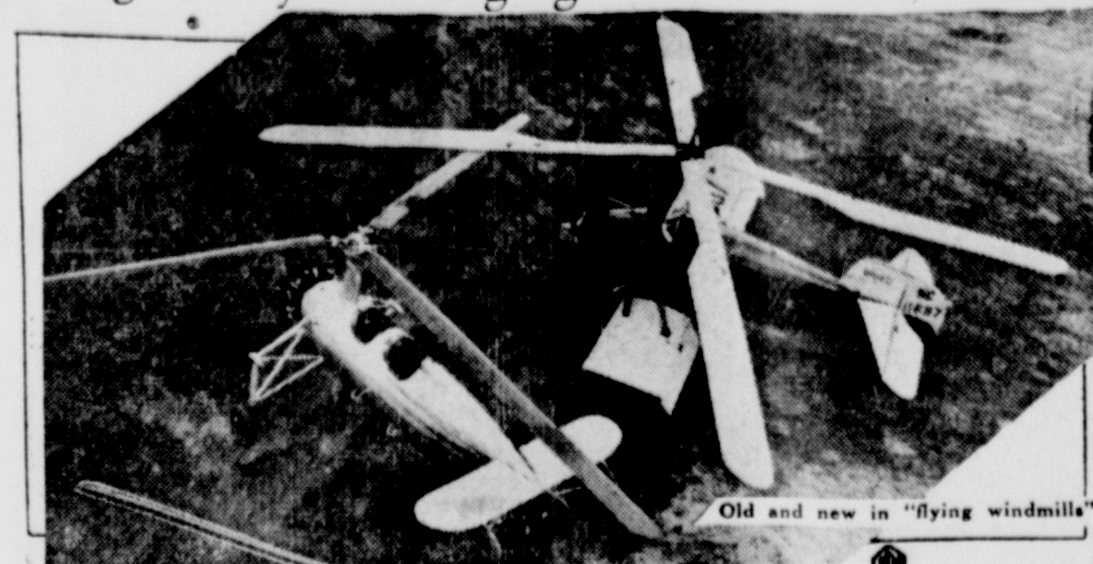

"In the name of Moses, I will not rest until I have found your murderer."

He has fulfilled his vow, arresting Joseph Somsky, who confessed that he was frightened and killed Monahan. The grand jury, and perhaps the electric chair, will do the rest.

That was a good vow, but officers of the law should become as much excited, just as anxious to find the criminal, when an ordinary citizen is killed as when a policeman or a government agent is killed. Plain men also dislike being shot.

DRESSMAKERS in Paris have elected Mrs. Harrison Williams, American, as the "best dressed woman in the world." Two other American women are in the first 12 "best dressed." Mrs. Louise Van Alen Mdivani of Newport, and the Baroness Eugene de Rothschild, of Wingless 'Gyro Presaging New Era of Aviation?

Old and new in "flying windmills"

The new 'wingless' gyro.

Development of a wingless autogyro capable of taking off with a run from 10 to 50 feet and descending vertically has led experts to forecast a new era in flying machines. Some experts believe

A "Rumpus" Room In Every Home; Easier To Have Now

ONE USED to listen with bated breath to the description of game rooms, for one knew that this was merely another luxury of the wealthy, something that had no place in the ordinary, average home. But today this is all very different. Abundant and increasing leisure and more time spent at home has made the game room, or "rumpus room" as it has been cleverly termed, standard equipment in almost every new home, even the least expensive.

Easy to Design One. And so, if your house doesn't possess a game room, why not toe the line by seeing to it that the family has one play room. It may be in the cellar, but it might likely be in the attic. Some folks have built a small garden house, where hilarity can reign without disturbing anyone not in the party. Perhaps game room does sound like a play room for children. But it is not. It is a place where adults may relax and play and thoroughly enjoy themselves. A card table or two for bridge, perhaps a small billiard table and a table for ping pong. There are very inexpensive collapsible tables that are ideal for games. For there must be games, and all the necessary impedimenta, if the game room is to justify itself. It can be decorated as a tavern taproom so that, at a moment, it becomes the logical place in which to serve an informal supper.

Transforming the Cellar. The cellar surely suggests itself as the logical place for a game room, especially since the automatic furnace has come into almost

A Few Hints--When You Go Shopping For Yule Presents

LET'S GO shopping, determined to select Christmas gifts that will reflect our own good taste and be useful as well as attractive. For there are many such things to be found, gifts that will bring pleasure to the recipient, not presents that will be unwelcome and likely to be thrust out of sight as soon as the holidays are over.

For the Home
Something for the house is always a good choice, and nowadays we aren't as sensitive as we used to be if someone gives us a new electric toaster or a carpet sweeper. We had such gifts with delight. The same goes for cushions, kitchen utensils such as ramekins or casseroles, all excellent choices as gifts. It is understood, of course, that whatever you select will fit in perfectly with the room for which it is chosen.

Lamps are only good when they are part of the room for which they are meant. A white alabaster lamp, though, is nearly always a good selection, as the vogue for white touches in the living room is growing apace. The new small lamps with crystal luster drops and white paper shade would be lovely in the bedroom or in a very feminine study or boudoir. The same goes for delightful little pin cushions, which have suddenly returned to favor.

Trays Always Welcome
Pineushions will find themselves at home in the most modern of interiors, and already the shops report that they have sold out and are waiting for reorders. But if pin cushions have been out of favor the same cannot be said of trays. Every home reports that there are never enough trays, so you will be quite safe in this choice.

An attractive tray is of chromium with handles made of polished ivory beads, strung tightly together on wood. And talking of trays brings us to another tray, one that puts out from a mirror. The mirror and the tray for holding powder and other cosmetic make-up is designed to be hung on the hall closet door, turning the hall into a guest closet, or it is equally nice in the bedroom or dressing room. This is the sort of thing that most of us covet, but do not buy.

Something New
Like trays, no household ever has enough matches. The little match boxes are nice, but guests have a way of absent-mindedly pilfering them. But there is a new container on the market which harbors enormous matches that might perhaps fit into the pockets of a giant but not of an ordinary mortal. These matches light themselves as they emerge from the inner container which is of processed cardboard and fits into an outer metal holder. The giant matches are all brightly hued, and an ornament to any room.

em High Cagers To Face Wellsville High Bengals In Season's Opener Tonight

Herb Brown Decides On Starting Lineup For Squad; Quakers Return To Meet Sebring On Saturday Night

By RAY L. DEAN, News Sports Editor.

Jumping right into the fire at the start, Salem and Wellsville high cagers will clash in the Ohio river city tonight, staking their chances for the 1935 basketball championship right off the bat.

By no means is in tip top shape for the starter and is due high duel with the Wellsville quintet, which it licked here last season, 30 to 26. The home-floor advantage will rest with the Bengal, a midget could play exceedingly well on the cigar-box floor than the taller.

Quakers Practice Extensively

Both Herb Brown drilled both varsity and reserve until late yesterday afternoon and emerged with a slight uneasiness as he announced the starting lineup.

First Starting Roster

He will send in as his starting tonight, Ben Cope and Collins at the forwards; Palmer at center; and Cliff and McCloskey at the guards. Leaves in reserve Zelle, Ken a forward; John Lutsch, Eddie Pukalski, guard, and Williamson, also guard. Wellsville is expected to take the fifth Ward Taylor and Bill members of last year's team at the forwards, and Thompson and Ernie as guards. Thompson is a sophomore. Bob Frieland, a senior, will be at center. The probable for the 7 p. m. preliminary announced. The regulars clash at 8 p. m.

Salem and Wellsville play Saturday night, Salem ending Sebring here, and the is traveling to Midland. The rs have been given a slight over the Sebring basketballers.

Other District Games

Games tonight around this will witness East Liverpool, Midland; Columbus, facing the New Waterford which last week crushed Lis-Lisbon playing host to the county Louisville quintet. Fairfield Centralized meets on the latter's court.

umbians and omans Winners In League Frays

Marquette quintet, which entered the Class B league this season, known as the Trinity Lancers, were beat 32 to 25 by the bians in the Memorial building Thursday night. Kaiser, forward high point man for the rs with 10. Kimes, Marquette center, polled nine for the night.

The other B league game played last night, the Roman Cubs, a man team, romped over the ry squad, 35-18, with Trom-center, and Scullion, guard, for scoring honors. Krepps, rd, and Woods, guard, led for potteries.

Alliance Boy On Ohio State Pick

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Out of the 735 players who took part in the intramural speedball league at Ohio State university this year, the 11 best players, selected by the officials who handled the games, were announced today.

The players selected on the all-university team are: Martin Rubin, Warren; Jerome Fischer, Cleveland; Bernard Dagan, Springfield; Abe Spackner, New York; Glenn Heestand, Alliance; Sidney Herreich, Ruburn, N. Y.; William Brown, Niles; Sidney White, New York; Oscar Rosen, Cleveland; Frank Serrell, Cleveland, and Joe Packer, Passaic, N. J.

Given honorable mention were Hyman Stern, Steubenville; Nathan Stern, Steubenville, and John Maxwell, Alliance.

Wooster Hardwood One Dreary Place

Special to The News

WOOSTER, Dec. 14.—The gloomiest place on the Wooster campus these days is the varsity basketball floor, late in the afternoon, when Coach Mose Hole directs the efforts of twenty aspiring cagers.

Coach Hole faces a mammoth task in rebuilding his team this season. The squad includes only one regular from last season, Chuck Harley, who is largely a defensive player.

This week Wooster is preparing for another invasion of Cleveland. Hole will take the Scots to there Saturday night to play the Ohio College of Chiropractic.

Negro Provides Boxing Thrill With His Antics

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—A 20-year-old Negro youth may bring the return of knockout thrills to boxing and lift the sport out of the doldrums.

The new hope is Joe Louis, from Detroit. Within the last six months, since graduating from the amateur ranks as a golden glove champion, Louis has compiled an amazing record, engaging in 11 fights, winning nine of them by spectacular knockouts.

Meets Lee Rammage

Tonight Louis will attempt to blast his way through the most formidable opposition he has met during his brief career, when he meets Lee Rammage, heavyweight of San Diego, Cal., in a ten round battle at Chicago stadium. Rammage is rated as the finest boxer the division has produced since Tommy Loughran.

The Detroit Negro is a natural smashing hitter.

The pulling power of the young Detroit Negro is reflected in the fact that tonight's match probably will draw a gate of $25,000. Just six months ago Louis was fighting around Chicago for $50. Tonight he will earn about $5,000 with his fists.

Fred Perry Loses Victoria Rating

(By Associated Press)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 14.—Fred Perry, of England, world's ranking tennis player, lost his title as champion of Victoria today when he was soundly beaten in the semifinals of the annual tournament by Adrian Quist, young Australian star. The scores were 6-0, 6-2, 6-0.

The court was extremely slow after heavy rain and Perry was unable to play his usual fast game. Quist produced masterful tennis and was in complete control throughout.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 14.—Beating an opposing football eleven 26-0, although making only one first down while doing so was the amazing gridiron freak turned in by Deering High school in its annual Thanksgiving day battle with Portland High school.

Portland High school made three first downs, but the brilliant punting of Dyer, Deering halfback, who kicked on first down repeatedly, pushed the Portland team so far back that his teammates were able to block four of Portland's attempts at punts and convert them into touchdowns.

Shucco Has Good Rating

Shucco, who has beaten many leading 175-pounders in the last few years including Olin Dutra, was a 6 to 5 favorite over Lewis in the betting odds. Lewis dropped a decision to Jimmy Braddock in his first eastern start but knocked out Yale Okun two weeks ago.

The twin feature on tonight's program sends Sammy Fuller, Boston lightweight, against Eddie Cole of Philadelphia. The winner will be matched with Tony Canzoneri, Dec. 28 after which the garden hopes to send the ultimate survivor against Champion Barney Ross.

Bucks' Cage Mentor Favors Letting Present Rules Stand

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Coach Harold G. Olsen, mentor of Ohio State's Bucks, is satisfied with the present basketball rules and doesn't favor tinkering with the regulations now governing the game.

And that is news, for 99 of every 100 coaches have some little pet "peeve," or some proposed change, that they like to talk about.

"We have plenty of basketball rules, and there's no use gunning up the game with a lot of new ones," Coach Olsen said today. "The present code was evolved after many experiments, and I think we should stick with it until the public demands something different."

Concerning Field Goals

"Now this suggestion that field goals count three points instead of two. On the face of it that sounds like a good idea, for a field goal should be worth more than two to one over a free throw. But, on the other hand, such a rule would probably result in an epidemic of fouling."

"A player would take a chance on fouling an opponent to halt three points, where he wouldn't do it to stop a two-pointer. Then there is another plan to move the baskets to 12 feet, instead of 10 feet from the floor, to halt 'dunking' by tall centers. I can't see that it would give the little fellow a more even break by moving the baskets farther away from him. I'd leave the baskets where they are."

Interpreting Rules

"The only change that I would like to see in basketball is not a matter of the rules, but in the manner of interpreting some of them. There are too many fouls called, resulting in a slowing up of the game. More than half of the fouls are unintentional, and have no bearing on the game, out on the other hand, such a rule would probably result in an epidemic of fouling."

LEWIS FIGHTS TONY SHUCCO

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Out of a pair of ten round bouts tonight Madison Square hopes to find the material for two championship engagements before the indoor season is over.

John Henry Lewis, highly touted far western Negro, meets Tony Shucco of Boston in one ten rounder, with the winner promised a title match with Bob Olin of New York for the light heavyweight championship at the garden next month.

Shucco, who has beaten many leading 175-pounders in the last few years including Olin Dutra, was a 6 to 5 favorite over Lewis in the betting odds. Lewis dropped a decision to Jimmy Braddock in his first eastern start but knocked out Yale Okun two weeks ago.

DUTRA WINNER OF MIAMI OPEN

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 14.—Olin Dutra, victorious in the Miami Biltmore open golf tournament, turned toward the new $5,000 British Colonial open today in search of more gulfing laurels.

Dutra beat back the challenge of the "stay at home" pros and is richer by $1,200 for upholding the prestige of the touring professionals.

Mike Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., one of the players who seldom participate in major competition, was second at 294 for the 75 holes, two strokes behind the national open champion.

Second Brings $1,000

He collected $1,000 for leading the second division.

The large field taking part in the annual classic ending yesterday had split today. A number of players, headed by Dutra, prepared to fly to Nassau, in the Bahama Islands, to try for a portion of the prizes in the British event, Dec. 18-20. Others, with Walter Hagen in the van, started westward on the annual gold coast circuit. The Pasadena, Calif., open, Dec. 20-22 is their first objective.

30,000 Seats Sold For Rose Bowl Fray

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 14.—With the annual Rose Bowl football game between Stanford and Alabama still three weeks away, approximately 30,000 of the 85,000 available seats have been sold.

This was the statement from Al Masters, Stanford graduate manager, when he returned from Palm Springs where he had attended the Pacific Coast conference meeting.

RUTH'S STATUS STILL IN DOUBT AS 3 SEEK HIM

Clubs Offer The Babe Secondary Managerial Position

BY EDDIE BREITZ, Associated Press Sports Writer (By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The future in baseball of Babe Ruth was partly solved today as magnates, managers, players and camp followers scattered in the wake of the dulcet major leagues meetings in many years.

The erstwhile ruler of the realm of swat, done as a regular performer and crowded out of the 16 managerial berths, may start next season as assistant manager of one of three big league clubs—the first step in the realization of his dream to wind up his distinguished diamond career as a manager on the big team.

With all managerial berths filled for the present, and the Babe vowing he would rest on his laurels rather than sign another player contract, the Boston Braves stepped into the breach yesterday with overtures which would take him to Beantown as first lieutenant to Bill McKechnie.

Released Outright

Charles Adams, one of the Boston owners, approached Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, with the idea and the colonel agreed to release Ruth outright to Boston provided he is not wanted in a similar role by any of the American league clubs.

Then it was revealed both the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox have been pondering the idea of obtaining baseball's most colorful character as chief assistant to managers Connie Mack and Joe Cronin.

Just how the Bambino will feel toward a proposition to play second fiddle on a big league team, with the chance of stepping into the managerial shoes later, is not known. But it is felt that Ruth now returning from a barnstorming tour to the Orient will welcome an opportunity to remain identified with the pastime he has graced so long.

Ruth Refused Heretofore

Ruth has steadfastly refused to consider managerial posts in the minors.

Many baseball men lean toward the thought that now that the National league has openly shown that it will welcome Ruth, the American leaguers will redouble their efforts to keep their one-time premier box office attraction within their ranks.

Two Deals Go Through

Only two deals were reported to enliven the final day. The Giants figured in both. They sent Joe Newman, a young right-handed pitcher and a bag full of cash to the Phillies in exchange for George Davis, an outfielder, and then turned around and collected Allyn Stout, pitcher and Mark Koenig, veteran infielder, from the Cincinnati Reds in return for Billy Myers, a shortstop the New Yorkers purchased from Columbus last fall.

The Giant-Philly swap was to have been a three-cornered affair with Pittsburgh getting Al Todd, Philly catcher and cash for Lloyd Waner and catcher Earl Grace, but this end of the deal fell through when the Pirates were unsuccessful in inducing the Braves to part with Hal Lee, outfielder, who was to have replaced Waner in the Pirate gardens.

Hot Spot in the Balkans

Where Hungary, Yugoslavia and Rumania come together. The white lines represent the borders and a soldier of each country stands at the boundary line. Before the World War this ground all belonged to Hungary but it was divided, as indicated, in the Treaty of Trianon.

Wheeler, Woolsey Comedy At Grand Saturday; "Green Gables" Tonight

AN era of southern life when gentlemen could consume as many mint juleps as the capacity of his ten gallon Sisson, and lavish soirees broke out into feuds, serves as a background for Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey's nonsensical and highly hilarious antics in their latest comedy hit, "Kentucky Kernels", to show at the Grand Saturday and Sunday.

Foster Fathers

The picture presents Wheeler and Woolsey as two unemployed actors. They are quite unwillingly appointed foster fathers of an aggressive youngster of three, with glass-breaking proclivities. While planning for the child's welfare, they are appraised of his inheritance of a southern plantation. Bert and Bob soon find themselves at the Millford homestead amid a treacherous feud with the Wakefields. The two vagabonds turn peace-makers in their irrepressible ways. Wheeler courts "Gloria Wakefield" and Woolsey drinks, snuffs and frolics in the enemy company. That is until their young ward meddles with a champagne bottle. The pop of the cork is mistaken for a pistol shot and the feud is again renewed.

"Spanky" Is Great

Wheeler and Woolsey's further efforts to establish peace only in-

"ANNE OF GREEN GABLES" with Anne Shirley in the title role is at the State today and Saturday. The famed L. M. Montgomery story that has thrilled readers for 26 years is beautifully and tenderly brought to the screen. Sixteen-year-old Anne Shirley turns in a splendid performance as the red haired

Before she took the name of the character of this, her first starring picture she was known as Down O' Day but she so typifies the attraction of "Kentucky Kernels" is "Spanky" McFarland who plays his largest part to date and proceeds to steal every scene he in.

Tom Brook is effective as Gilbert, the boy who teases Anne about her carrot colored hair, until she turns into a furious rage and then he crosses to love her dearly. Others in the cast are O. P. Heggie who plays the kind Mathews extremely well, Helen Westley who scores again as Marilla, Gertrude Messinger, Sara Raden, Murray Kin-nell, June Preston and Charley Grapwin.

"BEACH BEAUTY" by ARTHUR SHUMWAY

CHAPTER XIX

His arms drew her firmly toward him, his dark eyes moved close to her own, and she felt his lips on hers. His kiss was long, hard, intense. She had been expecting it, yet it shocked her somehow. She had no idea what she should have done and now it was too late. Gradually, firmly, she began to push him away, and she refused to let her own lips relax. She held them thin and tight.

It was Harrow who eased the situation. He released her and stepped back, grasping her hand.

"There," he said. "You see? That's how it is."

Kay made no answer.

"But you don't hate me?" he asked.

"No," she mumbled. "No I don't hate you."

"That's enough, then. And that's all. I'll not annoy you. Kay. Especially because now I know."

"Know what?"

"I could feel it—the resistance."

"Oh," she said.

Harrow nodded and she saw his shrewd smile move faintly across his lips.

"If it could be different," he said, and paused. "Well, at least I've been frank. And you've been frank. And it doesn't change our relation at all. Except that maybe by tomorrow afternoon I'll be gone from Daytona Beach."

The thought of his leaving brought a knot to Kay's throat. Now, that was silly, she tried to tell herself, but it was no use; the knot was there.

"Shall we go back and dance?" he asked.

"Let's," she said, taking his arm in a tight grip.

It was early in the morning when the Commander III returned to the docks in Daytona Beach. The night was clear now with soft moonlight and there was a peace upon the river and the city.

Ida Campbell offered to take Kay home, but Harrow insisted upon doing so himself.

"I don't know, Earl," Spike Winch remarked cautiously.

"I do," Harrow said, his voice firm.

Spike shrugged.

Ida's disappointment really pleased Kay. For once the rich girl wasn't having her own way about the man she had determined to get. And, furthermore, Kay wanted to hear more from Harrow. His declaration had done strange things to her emotional balance.

Harrow put her in the little car and took his seat beside her. Driving across the bridge, he was silent. So was Kay; she was waiting for him to speak.

As they left the bridge she looked behind and saw a large car following them. She caught her breath and would have spoken, if Harrow had not put his hand gently on her arm.

"Never mind about that," he said. "That's all right."

When the car behind the next street light, Kay caught a glimpse of the driver. She recognized him as one of the two husky men who had come aboard the boat. For some reason then, Harrow was being attended by an increased bodyguard. Spike Winch wasn't enough. That meant, she supposed, that the danger, whatever it was, was really considerable. For Spike was a pretty formidable watchdog. Kay remembered how he had handled his automatic that day on the fishing trip and she recalled his hard-muscled strength, dancing.

Harrow spoke finally.

"I told you what I did tonight because I may not have a chance again. Things have developed that need a lot of attention. You probably don't need to be told that. I'll be leaving in a few days now. Had planned to start at once, but Captain Johnson tells me he wants some work done on the boat. I suppose, in a way, it would be better to leave the boat here and go ahead, but I'm not going to do it."

Harrow's voice had hardened. "I came down here for a cruise and a rest and that's what I'm going to get. I'd like to see anybody stop me now. But I can't go into all this with you, Kay. The point is, I've had to tell you how I felt about you, to clear up whatever misunderstanding there may have been in the matter."

He drew up at Kay's house and the car behind stopped too, some two hundred feet back down the block.

Harrow took Kay's hand. "We'll go on as we have with the work," he said. I've quite a few little things to clean up before I start down the coast. And now you know the situation, you can better make up your mind what you want to do. If anything, I've already told you I'd be glad to have you along on the party if you thought it the thing to do. Otherwise—" He shrugged and said, "Well, we've had some fun and I've found a girl with ability and good sense. If she ever does come to me in New York she'll get her trial."

He leaned over to kiss her, but she drew back.

Harrow shrugged again, very slightly, and smiled. "As you wish," he said.

But his eyes were still on her and for some reason she did not move. Suddenly his arms were around her and he was kissing her. Breathless, weak in his embrace, she didn't try to struggle.

When he raised his head again and looked into her eyes, he said, "This time—I'm not sorry."

Kay got out of the car. She hardly knew what to say.

"You're—" she stammered, then stopped. "I mean—it's all so sort of upside-down. I don't know. But I've had a perfectly splendid time and I'll see you bright and early at the boat. Goodnight."

"Goodnight, Kay."

Harrow drove away. She watched

Suddenly his arms were around her and he was kissing her.

The little car go down the street under the archway of overhanging live oaks, then saw the big car with the two men pick up its trail. She turned to walk up the drive when she heard a third car. She looked out and saw it following the others. Where it had come from so suddenly she had no idea. It was large and dark and it seemed to be carrying several passengers.

She stood tense, and waited, listening, but heard no sound after the cars had disappeared. Silly, maybe, but she seemed to feel that the third car had something to do with the mysterious business that was going on. It seemed to have been following Harrow and his guards. Of course, maybe that was imagination. Or maybe it was another load of bodyguards. This last, though, seemed very silly.

In the night she had a wild dream again, this time of cars following Harrow and of Harrow helplessly fighting something dreadful that she never quite saw. It was a great relief in the morning to report to the yacht and find him sound and cheerful.

That noon Mrs. Owen told her she had heard from the cousin in North Carolina. "She wants us to come up right away, and I asked the doctor this morning and he said he thought Bud was well enough to stand the trip providing he lay down all the way—said the very change would be good for him, in fact."

"Then, you're going to be able to do it?" Kay asked. "I'm so glad for Bud's sake."

"We're leaving tomorrow. I've looked up the fare and there's a special rate this week."

"Well, I'm glad. It's nice of her to do it. You'll have the cottage to yourself, then?"

"She'll help us move in, then she'll be going back to Memphis."

"The mountains will be just what Bud'll need," Kay said. "He'll forget about the bank and everything a whole lot easier if he's in different surroundings."

"Who's going to look after the house?" Kay asked.

"Harry will," her mother said, referring to one of the roomers, a pleasant, capable man in his forties. He'll see that everything goes smoothly and Nettie'll take care of the rest. I'd almost be willing to trust her alone, but it's better having Harry to sort of keep an eye on things, just in case anything should happen."

"Then it's all settled and you're all ready to go?"

"I'm packing this afternoon. And you'd better tell Mr. Harry when you go back."

Kay had been afraid of this. She paused, angling for the tactful reply.

"But, mother," she said, "it does seem unnecessary, spending the extra money to take me along. And it'll make it crowded for you. It's a small cottage, isn't it?"

"No trouble at all, and I wouldn't think of leaving you behind. The expense doesn't matter a bit."

Whatever fragmentary dreams had been forming in Kay's mind during the last two days now seemed in danger of oblivion. The girl thought rapidly. There must be some way out of it; she had to stay in Daytona as long as Earl Harrow remained; she had to and it was nobody's business why. He would be leaving in a few days, but even so she had to stay.

"I don't know, mother," she said. "Mr. Harrow is going to be here a little while longer and I've my job still. It seems a shame to throw it up before the work is finished. Then, look," she said, a new idea striking her, "what good would it be in the mountains? Wouldn't it be better if I remained right here looking for some really permanent job?"

"I think you'd better tell Mr. Harrow when you go back this afternoon," Mrs. Owen said. "And I'll be getting your things together when I pack my own."

Her mother's manner was gentle still, but very firm, and Kay knew the time had come for another struggle of loyalties and desires. Mrs. Owen simply had her mind made up; there would be no arguing.

"All right," Kay agreed, "but don't bother to pack my things. I'll want to look them over first. No sense in taking much. Let me take care of it—though I still think it's silly."

"Try to come home early, Kay," her mother said.

"I will."

Kay left the house in a blue mood, riding slowly on her bicycle. Not only did she hate the idea of leaving her interesting work, the yacht and the man, Harrow, but she dreaded, too, being away from the beach, the river, her own boat, and all the things she liked so well about her life in Daytona Beach. Being in the mountains would be splendid for Bud, it was true, but what real good would it do for her? What she had told her mother was too true; there would be no jobs to find in the mountains. What was more, it would be a dull life.

They're Selling the South

Comprehensive plans for "selling the South" to the nation are being pushed by the Southeastern Development Board, three important leaders of which are here seen in session in New York. L. to r.: W. S. Lee, Jr., Charlotte, N. C., president; Dudley Harmon, and Howard E. Coffin, Sea Island, Ga., chairman of the representatives of the six states (Georgia, Florida, Alabama, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia) comprising the board. They're promoting tourist travel and industrial and agricultural development.

She thought swiftly as she rode across the bridge, the long white yacht lying peacefully before her against the background of the green foliage and the sun-washed buildings of the yacht club and Beach street, beyond.
